

The Deputy Auditor-General Initiates a Clean Up Campaign Between Senior Managers and The Auxiliary Division

Deputy Auditor-General joined by senior management and OAG staff members during a clean-up campaign of the Office.

As part of the OAG's strategic pillar of ensuring Operational Excellence within the OAG, the Deputy Auditor-General initiated a teambuilding clean-up campaign at the Office premises. The campaign was flagged off by the Deputy Auditor-General, Mr. Goms Menettè together with the Office senior management and employees from the Auxiliary division who participated in it. This was done with a common goal of promoting cleanliness and ensuring that the OAG employees remain good stewards of the environment.

The team picked up waste materials and cut down overgrown shrubs in the Office premises. The DAG said that the campaign aims to clean the stretch of the Office of the Auditor-General and ensure that the Office remains the cleanest in the country.

The objective is to promote and change behavior towards littering and influence waste management. This campaign is a functional tool in promoting cleanliness and DAG has utilized this concept strategically to create mass campaigns built on organizational practice, whilst ensuring that the Office space and the surrounding areas remain clean all the time. The DAG also asked other OAG staff members to make this initiative a culture, by challenging them to always participate voluntarily in any such endeavor.

This teambuilding initiative is the start of future upcoming staff morale building initiatives from the DAG ensuring effective collaborations and partnerships amongst OAG staff members, encouraging them to jointly work towards becoming a leading Supreme Audit Institution in the region.